Provo Dentist Honored
By State Association

Dr. Reed A. Holdaway, a Provo dentist since 1943, has been honored by the Utah Dental Association, which presented him its 1982 Distinguished Service Award.

The award was presented during a luncheon that highlighted the first full day of convention activities for the association in Hotel Utah at Salt Lake City.

Holdaway, who was raised on a farm in the Orem area where Geneva Steel plant later was built, received his dental degree from the University of Southern California. He later studied orthodontia and through the years became widely known as an expert in this dental discipline.

He has traveled widely, presenting clinics and participating in meetings to help educate fellow dentists.

Dr. John Matis, Ogden orthodontist, who will become president of the association at the close of the annual meeting, presented the award, com-
